PROFILE

With a degree in software engineering, one in graphic design and one in psychology, I have made learning and self-development my main goals in life. As a full-stack developer, I strive to harness my knowledge and effectively help teams communicate, thrive and deliver. I place strong emphasis on cooperation and contributing to a healthy work environment. Professionally and in leisure, solving problems is what I most enjoy, and developing rich, user-friendly applications is the culmination of my work.
